Upon the coming events of the year, seat the hopes of the Feople and Government. We are in the midst of a bloody and protracted civil war. Its duration and close depend upon a wiser, truer and more patritic Policy than we have seen during the present Administration. We owe it to the memory of our Fath s, and to the hepes of our Children, to the future of our Country, and to the hest interest of mankind, to shange a Policy which is drifting us farther and turher from the landmarks of our patriotic sires.

THE STATESMAN will do all it can to aid in tringing about this change; and hence, the Publishers in wite support and encouragement from all those who while wishing for a good NEWSPAPER, also wish to have a sound Constitutional journal. We publish a paper in which we seek to give the > throw the Rebel Government?

> There is nothing that would so gratify every true patriot as the demolition of the Confederate Government by an uprising of the southern people. So long as they are unanimous in its support, its flight or destruction would be of no avail; the lost head of the hydra would immediately sprout forth again, by the great vitality of the juices that circulate through its body. But the overthrow of Jeff. Davis by the revolt of his own people would be an enduring triumph. The physical force of a commutation at the results from Atlanta to Pittsburg, was requested, together with about 2 000 other soldiers, by the officers at Indianapolis, at which place we arrived at 4 o'clock in the morning of the election day, to vote the Republican State ticket. A great part of the soldiers were Germans. At the depot were carriages which took us to the polls, and many of the soldiers voted twice and three times. We handed our votes into a window, and nobody asked us whether we had a right to vote or whether we had a right to vote or whether we were treated with ale and all other things we might eat and drink. I am convinced that Can the Democratic Party Over-But the overthrow of Jeff. Davis by the revolt of his own people would be an enduring

But is this possible? We confidently believe that it is. The response made by the second officer in the rebel government to the proceedings of the rebel government to the proceedings of the Democratic National Convention, is a signal proof that there is yet a chord in the southern heart that if rightly touched will vibrate to the music of the Union. A fact recited by Mr. Winthrop in his recent eloquent speech confirms and fortifies the impression made by Mr. Stephens' letter.— Every disclosure of the possibility of raising up a great Union party in the South is

> ing up a great Union party in the South, is of such deep interest that we need offer no apology for reproducing that part of Mr. Winthrop's speech. He said: A BIT OF TESTIMONY FROM THE SOUTH. I fear, my friends, that I have already detained you too long. My own strength, certainly, will hardly hold out longer, even if your indulgence and your patience be not already exhausted. But I must not take my leave of you without giving you a little piece of testimony of the highest interest and importance. Among the refugees from Atlanta, immediately after its capture, there came within our lines not many days in the valuable rights thus trampled upon? Do they not know that when the sovereign peother will be of this land come fully to realize (as they surely will) that it is the deliberate design of the party in power to deprive them of the last hope, through the ballot took, to relieve themselves of this tyranny, that their honor, their history, their traditions and their religion, and everything that is valuable to them, will impel them to there came within our lines not many days ago a person of the most estimable and ex-cellent character, who had enjoyed the best with all its horrors, in our midst? If not, opportunities of understanding the southern heart. And what said he, do you think, on being interrogated as to the prospects of frauds—such crimes against both the laws the future? I can give you his remarks from the most authentic source. They were communicated to me by a good friend of the Union in one of the border States. "If Mr. Lincoln is elected," said he, "the people of the South will fight for thirty years, for they feel that they can do nothing better; but if McClellan is elected, such an overwhelming Union party will be formed in the South that peace will be the almost immediate result." ["That's so." Loud cheers.] "I speak," said he, "the sentiments of the people, not the officials. The leaders of the rebellion are anxious for the re-election of Mr. Lincoln, as giving most hope of the ultimate success of the rebel cause. But the people," he added, "respect McClellan and belowed all over the State, and what is the the future? I can give you his remarks people," he added, "respect McClellan, and be-lieve in his honesty, capacity and patriotism; and being heartily tired of the war, they will be willing to trust him." [Cheers.] Such is the latest and most authentic testimony from the very heart of the Southern Confederacy. It was communicated to me from a source entitled to the highest confidence and it concurs, I need hardly say, with every opinion which I have been able to form for myself. I do firmly and honestly believe that, if by the aid of this good old State of Connecticut, George Brinton McClellan shall be proclaimed President of the United States of America on the 4th day of March next, as I hope and trust he may be [cheers], another year will not have ex-pired without witnessing the final termina-tion of the rebellion; and that the succeeding 4th of July will find us celebrating such a jubilee as has not been seen since that day was first hailed as the birthday of American independence. [Continued cheering.]

I do not forget the danger of indulging in these ninety days, or even twelve months prophesies. ["That's so, too." Laughter.]
I do not forget how many memorable warnings we have had of their fallacy. I can only say that in that hope, in that trust, in that firm and unswerving confidence, I shall give my vote to the candidate of the Democratic party, and whether that vote shall prove to have been cast with the many or with the few, with majorities or with minorities, I shall feel that I have followed the dictates of my own best judgment, of my own conscientious convictions of duty, and of my own unalterable attachment and devotion to the Constitution and the Union of my country. [Loud cheering.] [From the New York Express.] The Massachusetts White Slave Trade --- What Becomes of the Imported Soldiers --- Two Hundred and Fitty of Them Refuse to Fight and are Sent to the Front as Prisoners.

Our readers will remember that some time since the Express translated from the Courier des Etats Unis an article containing most astounding revelations regarding the manner in which the State of Massachusetts filled her quotas under the several calls for troops by sending agents abroad and importing cargoes of foreigners. The foreigners, as was stated at the time, are ineigners, as was stated at the time, are induced to accept the profilers of agents on the other side by the promises held out to them that they are to work, not fight, when arriving in this country. Those who have been thus deceived have all been distributed throughout the various regiments belonging to Massachusetts, but two hundred and fifty of the most intelligent of these emigrants, as we have learned since from authentic sources, still hold out and refuse to fight under the Massachusetts banner. For several weeks past they were huddled together at Harper's Ferry, and all the threats, all the oppression could and all the threats, all the oppression could not induce them to become soldiers in a not induce them to become soldiers in a Massachusetts regiment. If they were obliged to fight at all, they preferred to do so in a New York regiment, the Ninth Artillery, as they would then be commanded by officers who were their own countrymen. The commander at Harper's Ferry, Col Johnson, was appealed to, to either give them their liberty, to which they were entitled, or to transfer them to the Ninth New York Artillery. But the Colonel, not satisfied with refusing their just demands, we have since heard, sent them all last week as prisoners to the front at Winchester, as prisoners to the front at Winchester, there probably to be shot down as "muti-neers" (?) by our own forces, or as ene-mies by the rebels!

Brecher's Sunday Circus.—Henry Ward Beecher's Sunday evening political harangues are even more crowded than his religious discourses. Last Sunday night, for instance, the crowd about the doorways was noisy and uncomfortable. Ladles were handed over the backs of pews, bonnets and beavers were crushed, crinolines were rendered shapeless, and hundreds went away from the doors unable to obtain admission. A full blown circus could honor Sabbath evening no more.

INDIANA DESPOTISM.

Bend, Pause, and Reflect!!! The following letter, from a soldier, appeared a few days after the late election, in The Pittsburg Republican, a German paper of that city:

PITTSBURG, Oct. 14, 1864. I, George Stumpf, member of the 7th Pennsylvania cavalry, and attached to the music corps, do hereby certify, that al-though formerly a resident of Pittsburg, en route from Atlanta to Pittsburg, was remight eat and drink. I am convinced that every soldier of the 2,000 voted once, and many two or three times, although we belonged to Pennsylvania, Ohlo, Michigan, Maryland and other States. Besides us in Indianapolis also voted about 2.000 invalids belonging to other States. At 8:30 P. M., started the soldiers of the Pennsylvania regiments to Crestline, and the soldiers of other States to other places.
[Signed] George Stumps,

[Signed] GEORGE STORY.
7th Pennsylvania Cavalry. Thus it is that the rays of light are beginning to shine in upon the stupendous frauds, practiced by Lincoln despotism, at the recent election in Indiana. Is it strange that under such a system of official corruption and perjury, that Indianapolis, with her population, of 18,611 by the recent census, should have cast a vote of near 10,000 at the last election? How long do honest Republicans imagine that the people, who are the masters under our sys-tem, will submit quietly to have their most valuable rights thus trampled upon? Do rise up, and throw off the yoke? Do they of God and the country.

blowed all over the State, and what is the result? The best thing that they can now do is to pack up bag and baggage, scrip and scribage, and retire from the management of party politics in the future. Let them leave that hereafter to men who have a lit-tle reputation and honesty left."

Said the New York Tribune, Nov. 26, 1860 "If the cotton States unitedly and earnest-wish to withdraw peacefully from the nion, we think they should and would be allowed to do so. Any attempt to compel them by force to remain would be contrary to the principles enunciated in the immortal Declaration of Independence, contrary to the fundamental ideas on which human liberty is based."

This is the authority which nominated Mr. Lincoln, and which more than any other has influenced his policies. If, not with stand-ing this fact, it is disputed that Mr. Lincoln did coincide with the sentiments expressed in the extract, we invite attention to the subjoined declaration made by him in Con-gress during the Mexican war:

"Any people anywhere, being inclined and having the power, have a right to rise up and shake off the existing government and form a new one that suits them better. This is a most sacred right, which we hope and believe is to liberate the world. Nor is this right confined to cases in which the whole people of an existing government may choose to exercise it. Any portion of such people that can may revolutionize, and make their own of so much of the territory as they may inhabit. More than this, a majority of any portion of such people may revolutionize, putting down a minority, intermingled with or near about them, who may oppose their movements.'

John Slidell.—Describing the recent marriage in Paris, a letter says: "Miss Slidell is rather a tall and decidedly fine looking young lady of about twenty-two, and has the reputation of being exceedingly religious, benevolent and amiable. She was dressed in white satin, with a long train, and was the conventional well and the and wore the conventional veil and the wreath of orange blossoms. Considering that Mr. Slidell is said to have made a million or more out of the rebel loan, it struck me that he might have indulged in a new dress coat on the occasion, as the one he wore looked excessively seedy, and thought the old gentleman himself looked rather dilapidated."
